Subject- Consolidated report of students' performance in the subject of Pharmacology in II professional MBBS CBME batch in 2024.

Respected sir,

This is to inform you that special sessions like small group discussions and remedial classes were conducted for students of II professional MBBS who did not perform well during their internal assessment program of Pharmacology.

For slow learners, criteria of less than 50% marks in in internal assessment was adopted. For advanced learners, top 10% scorers in internal assessments were considered.

It was observed that the students from both, slow performers and advanced learners achieved academic progress and special achievements.

Subject: Consolidated report of students performance 3rd year MBBS Part-II 2019-20 (Passing year 2022-23) Obstetrics & Gynaecology department.

Respected Sir,

This is inform you that special sessions were conducted for students of 3rd year MBBS Part-II 2019-20 (Passing year 2022-23) who did not perform well during their internal assessment of Obstetrics & Gynaecology subject.

For slow learners, <50% marks in the internal assessment were adopted for extra small group teaching sessions and DOAP sessions. For advance learners, top 10% scorers in internal assessment were considered. For them seminars and quiz were conducted.

It was observed that students from both, slow performers and advance learners achieved academic progress in terms of qualifying final university examination and special achievements.

Kindly find attached consolidated reports on slow performers and advance learners with specific programmes and academic progress.

Thanking you,

Dr. Hemant Deshpande

To,

The Director,

Subject: Consolidated report of student's performance in Semester Examination of Academic year 2023-2024.

Dear Madam,

This is to inform you that special sessions/programs were conducted for students of BT-AI, BT-CSD, MCA, BCA, BSc. who did not perform well during their internal exam.

For slow learners, less than 40% marks/Below passing marks in the Internal Exam was adopted. For advanced learners, more than 85%/Top 10% scorer in internal exam was considered.

It was observed that the students from both slow performers and advance learners achieved academic progress in terms of qualifying final examination and special achievements.

Kindly find attached consolidated reports on slow performers and advance learners with specific programs and academic progress/specific achievements.

ITS INDICATED REMEDIES

Presented by : Chinmayi Sadanand Rasal
Roll no.66

39.5	103.1
39.0	102.2	FEVER
38.4	101.1

WHAT IS FEVER?

Synonyms-
Elevated temperature; Hyperthermia; Pyrexia

- A fever is a physiological problem when your body temperature is above the normal range. An elevated body temperature usually accompanies an underlying condition. Your body increases your temperature to help fight infection or signal a problem from within.
- Normal range of body temperature - 98 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. The immune system is trying to remove the cause of your illness by making a fever. Normally, it will resolve on its own within a week at the most.

Fever is commonly associated with:

- Viral and bacterial infections
- Colds or flu-like illnesses
- Sore throats and strep throat
- Earaches (otitis media)
- Viral gastroenteritis or bacterial gastroenteritis
- Acute bronchitis
- Infectious mononucleosis
- Urinary tract infections
- Upper respiratory infections (such as tonsillitis, pharyngitis or laryngitis)
- Medications (such as antibiotics, antihistamines, barbiturates, and drugs for high blood pressure)
- Occasionally, more serious problems like pneumonia, appendicitis, tuberculosis(TB), and meningitis
- Fever can occur in infants who are overdressed in hot weather or a hot environment
- Collagen vascular disease, rheumatoid diseases, and autoimmune disorders
- Juvenile rheumatoid arthritis
- Lupus erythematosus
- Periarteritis nodosa
- AIDS and acute HIV infection
- Inflammatory bowel disease
- Regional enteritis
- Ulcerative colitis
- Cancer
- Leukemia
- Neuroblastoma
- Hodgkin's disease
- Non-Hodgkin's lymphoma

TOP THREE CAUSES

- Viral infection - this is the most common cause of fever in children.
Examples are: Roseola, Colds, Flu, Coxsackie (hand, foot and mouth disease), Chicken Pox, Fifth Disease, and many others.
Most viruses are not dangerous. They simply need to run their course over several days. They are not treatable with antibiotics.
- Bacterial infection - Some examples include ear infection, sinus infection, pneumonia, bladder infection, and strep throat. These are treatable with antibiotics, although treatment can usually wait 12 hours until you can contact you doctor in the morning.
- Teething - this can cause fevers, though usually not higher than 101.

SIGNS AND SYMPTOMS

Depending on etiology the signs and symptoms can be :

- Sweating
- Chills and shivering
- Headache
- Muscle aches
- Loss of appetite
- Irritability
- Dehydration
- General weakness
- Children between the age group of 6 months and 5 years may experience febrile seizures. About one third of children may have recurrent febrile seizures, most commonly within the next 12 months.

CHECKING OF TEMPERATURE

- Infants : Rectal region
- Paediatricts and adults :

1. oral (below tongue),
2. underarms.

• Continuous fever :Also called a "sustained" fever, this is a prolonged fever with little or no change in temperature over the course of a day. Sustained fever is a pattern in which there is little change (0.3°C or less) in the elevated temperature during a 24-hour period. typhoid fever or typhus, although commonly seen in bacterial endocarditis, tuberculosis, fungal disease, and bacterial pneumonia. Noninfectious etiologies include neoplasms, connective tissue disease, and drug fever.

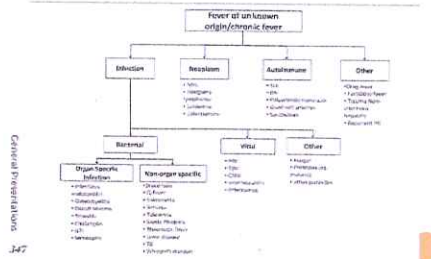

TYPES OF FEVER

- Intermittent fever : This fever has a fluctuating baseline between normal temperatures and fever levels over the course of the day. Fever raises and falls to normal every day.(37.2°C or below). Fever at 48-hour intervals suggests Plasmodium vivax or P. ovale; 72-hour intervals suggest P. malariae, while P. falciparum often has an unsynchronized intermittent fever.
- Remittent fever : This type of fever may come and go, and temperature fluctuates, but though it falls, it never falls all the way back to normal. In these two patterns (intermittent and remittent) the amplitude of temperature change is more than 0.3°C and less than 1.4°C.
- Hectic fever : Either an intermittent or a remittent fever is considered hectic if the temperature range swings widely throughout the day, with a difference of at least 1.4 degrees Celsius between the highest and lowest temperatures. (1.4°C or more). Along with chills seen in TB, hypernephromas, lymphomas, and drug reactions, abcess, pyelonephritiss.

· Relapsing : This is a type of intermittent fever that spikes up again after days or weeks of normal temperatures. This type of fever is seen in rat-bite fever, malaria, cholangitis, infections with Borrelia recurrentis, Hodgkin's disease (Pel-Ebstein fever), and other neoplasms.

Most fevers follow the usual diurnal pattern.
Disseminated tuberculosis, typhoid fever, and polyarteritis nodosa are important exceptions in which reversal of the usual diurnal pattern ("typhus inversus" pattern) can be observed. A reversed pattern is also seen with old age.

- This makes it ideal for infections after:-
- surgery-miscarriage-after a septic wound that is not healing– any septic fever-viral or bacterial infections that have gone septic
- Pyrogen tends to be accompanied by fevers that are low grade but with irregularities of the circulatory system, such as too fast or slow pulse

OPTOMETRY & VISUAL SCIENCES

Proforma to identify slow performers and advanced learners.

The DYPIOVS policy for classifying children as fast or slow learners is well-documented. Following acceptance, the school evaluates the students' learning levels and designs specialized curricula for both advanced and slow learners.
Through the use of a variety of student-centered teaching and learning strategies, English language classes, programs for both slow and quick learners, etc., the institute accommodates the diversity of its student body.

Group discussions, interpersonal interactions, and internal assessments are used to identify slow learners. Following that, the required actions are carried out, such as extra tutorials and small group instruction, the records of which are maintained at the departmental level along with their attendance, frequency schedule, and itinerary.

Students who perform poorly on periodic exams and those who receive less than 50% on their first internal exam will be evaluated for slow learners based on measurable criteria.
